

I myself am a business traveler, however the thought of having someone sitting next to me talking on the phone for three hours is not something I would like to experience.